To get rid of ants, it is necessary in most cases to locate their nest or colony and spray it thoroughly with an insecticide. Carpenter ants do not eat wood the way termites do, but they do chew it and hollow it out to create a nesting spot. They like dampness, so they will often build their nests near a leaky pipe or gutter, or near the bottom of a damp, hollowed – out post. For full control, this colony must be located and treated – even if it means ripping some walls open . A professional exterminator should be able to locate and treat the nest .

- a. Spraying the entire house with insecticide
  - b. Eliminating leaks in pipes and gutters
  - c. Controlling the termite population
  - d. Finding the place where they nest
26. What is mentioned as difference between ants and termites?
- a. Termites do not build nest.
  - b. Ants do not eat wood.
  - c. Termites like dampness.
  - d. Ants nest in pipes or gutters.
27. Who is probably the best person to get rid of ants?
- a. A carpenter
  - b. A homeowner
  - c. An exterminator
  - d. An experienced plumber
28. Which of the following is the most appropriate title for the passage?
- a. Dangers of insecticides
  - b. Dealing with an Ant Problem
  - c. Differences Between Ants and Termites
  - d. Disadvantages of Damp Climates

บทอ่านที่ 1 เรื่อง Food (Potatoes)

กลุ่มสาระการเรียนรู้ภาษาต่างประเทศ (ภาษาอังกฤษ) ชั้นมัธยมศึกษาปีที่ 5

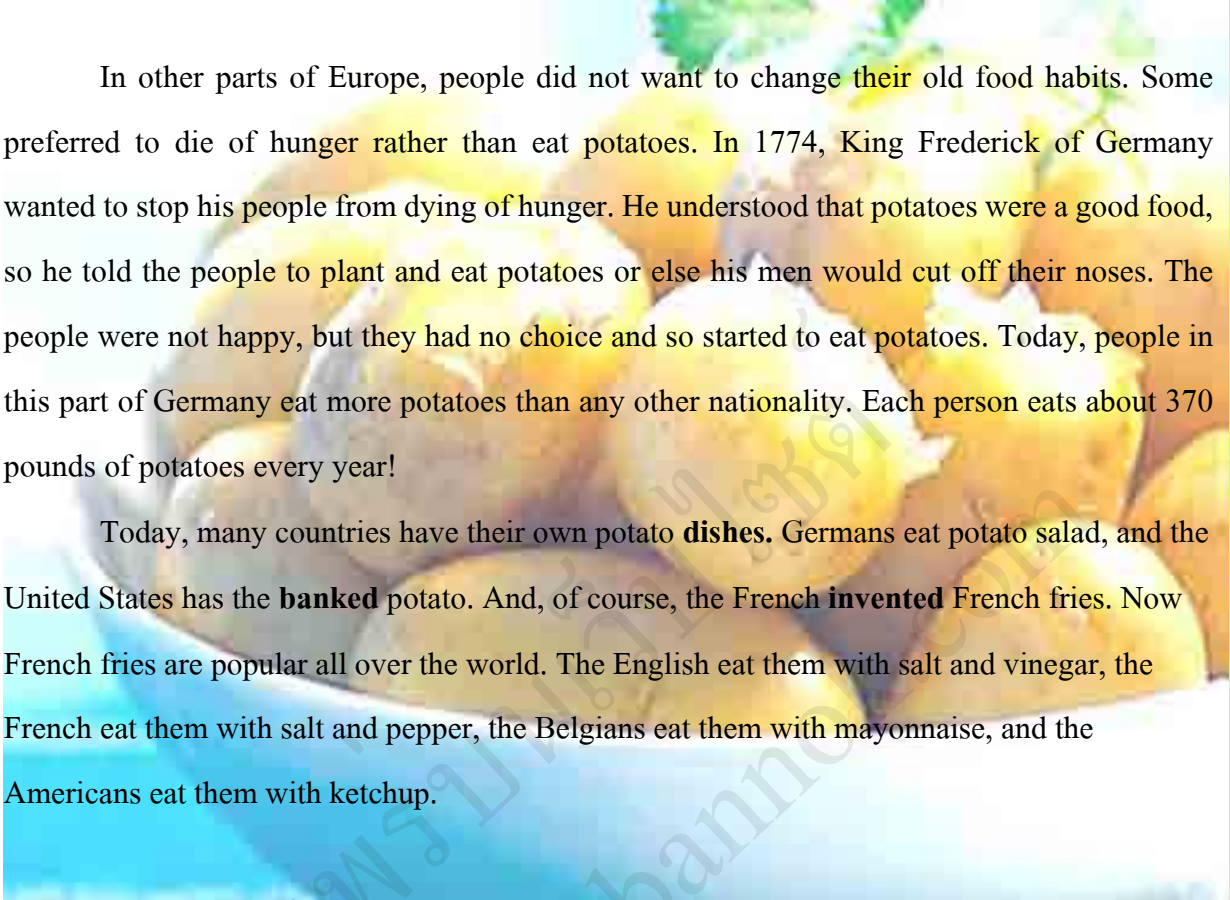

Read the passage carefully and then complete the sentences with the following words.

Potatoes

Can you imagine life without French fries? Potatoes are very popular today. They are the fourth most important crop in the world, after wheat, rice, and corn. But in the past, potatoes were not always popular. People in Europe started to eat them only 200 years ago!

In the 1500s, the Spanish went to South America to look for gold. There, they found people eating potatoes for 7,000 years! The Spanish brought the potato back to Europe with them. But people in Europe did not like this strange vegetable. Some people thought that if you ate potatoes, your skin would look like the skin of a potato. Other people could not believe that you ate the underground part of the plant, so they ate the leaves instead. This made them sick because there is poison in the leaves. Others grew potatoes for their flowers. At one time in France, potato flowers were one of the most expensive flowers. Marie Antoinette, the wife of King Louis XVI, wore potato flowers in her hair.

Around 1780, the people of Ireland started to eat potatoes. They found that potatoes had many advantages. The potato grew on poor land, and it grew well in their cold and rainy climate. It gave more food than any other plant, and it needed little work. All they had to do was to plant the potatoes, and then they could do other work on the farm. On a small piece of land, a farmer could grow enough potatoes a day, with some milk or cheese, and be very healthy. Soon, potatoes became the main food in Ireland. Then, in 1845, a disease killed all the potatoes in Ireland. Two million people died of hunger. Many Irish who did not die came to the United States at this time. Over a million Irish came to America; one of them was the great-grandfather of John F. Kennedy.

In other parts of Europe, people did not want to change their old food habits. Some preferred to die of hunger rather than eat potatoes. In 1774, King Frederick of Germany wanted to stop his people from dying of hunger. He understood that potatoes were a good food, so he told the people to plant and eat potatoes or else his men would cut off their noses. The people were not happy, but they had no choice and so started to eat potatoes. Today, people in this part of Germany eat more potatoes than any other nationality. Each person eats about 370 pounds of potatoes every year!

Today, many countries have their own potato dishes. Germans eat potato salad, and the United States has the baked potato. And, of course, the French invented French fries. Now French fries are popular all over the world. The English eat them with salt and vinegar, the French eat them with salt and pepper, the Belgians eat them with mayonnaise, and the Americans eat them with ketchup.

Would you like some chicken feet? How about frog's legs? Well, you can't say no to fifty-year-old egg! It's a delicacy that people pay a lot of money for, believe it or not. People in different parts of the world eat just about everything, from elephant's trunks monkey's brains.

Chicken feet are a favorite appetizer in China, while in Taiwan turkey feet are a favorite. In Taiwan, people have both chicken feet and turkey feet in their salads. Whereas Americans like the white meat of a chicken, people in Taiwan prefer other parts of the chicken, like the dark meat and the inside parts. They often deep fry the skin and serve it separately, along with the main meal.

Snakes and eels are delicacies in most parts of the world. In France and England, fish shops sell eels that are alive. In Asia, there are special restaurants for eating snakes. Everything on the menu is snake : snake soup, snake appetizers, snake main course, and snake desserts! When you go to the restaurant, the snakes are alive. You choose the snake you want to eat. Then the waiter kills the snake before your very eyes!

People line up in front of restaurants in Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand, and Indonesia to get fish heads. The restaurants prepare the whole fish, but people start by eating the head, which they believe is the tastiest part of the fish. So many people ask for fish heads is higher than the price of the best steak.

What about eating a fish that can kill you? The Japanese put their lives in danger every time they eat this delicacy. The fish is called the blowfish, and it is very poisonous. Although they know that they could die, they continue to eat it. Every year, the Japanese eat 200,000 tons of blowfish, and 70 to 100 people die from it every year.

Rats and mice are also a special food in some parts of the world. In China, people like rice especially. They clean and salt them and leave them in oil. Then they hang them to dry. These rats sell in the market for twice the price of the best pork. Farmers in Thailand and the Philippines also love rice rats. In Vietnam, mice from the rice fields are fried or grilled. In Spain, there is a traditional dish called paella, which is made with rice and pieces of fish. In the town of Valencia, this dish also has rat meat to give it a special flavor.

Insects like termites, ants, and bees are delicacies to many people. In Africa, people fight over termite nests. They eat the termites alive and say that they taste like pineapple. In India, people make the ants into a paste and eat them with curry. In Borneo, people mix ants with rice. They say that the ants give the rice a special flavor. In Australia, the drink tastes like lemonade! And bees are delicious when you fry them. You just can't stop eating them!

บทอ่านที่ 2 เรื่อง Animal (Killer Bees)

Read the passage carefully and then choose the best answer.

Killer bees started in Brazil in 1975. A scientist in Sao Paulo wanted bees to make more honey, so he put forty – six African bees in with some Brazilian bees. The bees started to breed and make a new kind of bee. However, the new bees were a mistake. They did not want to make more honey; they wanted to attack. Then, by accident, twenty – six African bees escaped and bred with the Brazilian bees outside.

Scientists could not control the problem. The bees spread. They went from Brazil to Venezuela and then to Central America. Now they are in North America. They travel about 390 miles a year. This means that there will be one million new colonies in five years.

Killer bees are very dangerous, and people are right to be afraid of them. When killer bees attack people, they attack in great numbers and often seriously hurt or kill people. Four hundred bee stings can kill a person. A total of 8,000 bee stings is not unusual for a killer bee attack. In fact, a student in Costa Rica had 10,000 stings and died. Often, the bees attack for no reason. They may attack because of a strong smell that is good or bad or because a person is wearing a dark color, has dark hair, or is wearing some kind of shiny jewelry.

What can you do if you see killer bees coming toward you? The first thing you can do is run – as fast as you can. Killer bees do not move very fast, but they will follow you up to one mile. Then you must go into the nearest house or tent. Do not jump into water. The bees will wait for you to come out of the water. Killer bees will try to attack the head or the face, so cover your head with a handkerchief or a coat. You may even take off your shirt and cover your head. Stings to your chest and back are not as dangerous as stings to your head and face. However, if the bees sting you many times, you must get medical attention immediately.

How are killer bees different from normal honey bees? Killer bees are a little smaller than regular bee, but only an expert can tell the difference. Killer bees get angry more easily and attack more often than honey bees. Killer bees attack and sting in great numbers. Like honey bees, each killer bee can sting only one time, and the female bee dies after it stings. Killer bees also make honey, but a honey bee makes five times more honey than a killer bee.

Up to now, killer bees have killed about 1,000 people and over 100,000 cows in the Americas. In the United States alone, five people have died from killer bee stings since 1990. The first American died from bee stings in Texas in 1993. From Texas, the bees moved to Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, and then Southern California. Where will they go next?

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions which follow it.

A bloodhound is a large dog which is able to follow the smell or scent of a human being or animal. Many people do not understand bloodhounds because they think the dogs are dangerous and cruel. But these dogs are gentle and harmless; they will not attack the person they have followed.

The bloodhound did not get the name bloodhound because he likes the taste of blood. His name means a dog of pure race, or “pure blood”, which has not been mixed with any other. It has been known in England for many hundreds of years.

He is able to trail, that is to follow by smell, any living thing from an insect to a deer. The dog which trails only persons has been specially trained to do so.

Mr. Smith, who teaches bloodhounds, give them a number of lessons. For the first lesson, he rubs liver on the hands of several boys. Then he tells them to stand in a line and hold their hands behind their backs. He puts a small jar of liver in the pocket of one of the boys, and lets the young dog smell something belonging to this boy. Then the dog must find this boy. If he goes up to the line of boys and picks out the wrong boy, Mr. Smith hits him gently on the nose, but if he picks out the right boy, he gets the jar of liver.

When a dog is being taught, it should always be given something when the work is finished. It is a present or reward for something done well, and the dog expects this reward.

Once an escaping prisoner carried his own jar of liver. The police sent bloodhounds after him, and the dogs found him before the police arrived. The man gave the hounds the liver and quietly walked away.

It is surprising how dogs can pick up scents in the air.

Once the police gave Mr. Smith a glove with which to find a murderer. First he let his dog smell it, then he followed them. After a time the scent took them to a cottage several miles away. In the yard behind the cottage stood an old car ; its engine was still hot. The dogs had followed the scent of the murderer even though he had traveled in a car! The bloodhounds scratched with their paws at the door of the cottage until a woman opened it.

When the police asked if there was a man in the house she said that he was not there. But the dogs stood on their back legs and whined, their noses pointing straight upward. The policemen looked and found the murderer hiding under the roof.

บทอ่านที่ 3 เรื่อง The interesting place (Phu Reua National Park)
 กลุ่มสาระการเรียนรู้ภาษาต่างประเทศ (ภาษาอังกฤษ) ชั้นมัธยมศึกษาปีที่ 5

Read the passage carefully and then write true or false in the sentences.

Phu Reua National Park

Location in Loei, one of the coolest provinces of Thailand. It is rugged mountain range and also the headwater of many rivers of Loei.

Phu Reua is the highest peak of 1,365 m above seal level. At the top, is a viewpoint that you can panoramically see Heuang and Khong Rivers.

More than half of the top of Phu Reua is covered with low shrubbery, grasslands and strangely formed rock formations. Due to the cool climate the area is rich in orchid species which flower throughout the year. Pha Loannoi is good point to see the sun rise.

Topography

It is high mountain comprised of sand and granite. The highest peak is Phureua. It is 1,365 meters high from the sea level. The other important peaks are Phu sun, which is 1,035 meters high from the sea level, and Phu ku, which is 1,000 meters high from the sea level. It is the water source of many creeks and rivers such as Huay Nam Dam, Huay Bong, Huay Kiengna, Huay SaiKwao, Huay Tiew, and Huay Pa which is the source of Huay pai waterfall.

Climate

Loei is one of the coldest provinces in Thailand because of the high mountain ranges. It is cool all year round, especially in winter. The area is prone to hail “Mae Kaning” and tourists need to be well prepared.

Flora and Fauna

Phu reua has many kinds of plants and wild life such as wild roses, moss, ferns, wild orchids, bears, barking deer, boars, hyenas, monkeys, squirrels, rabbits, turtles, as well as birds.

Pha Loannoi

About 3 km from the Park headquarters with a viewpoint of sunrise and panoramic view of Phuluang, Phu Crang.

Pha Sam Tong or Pha of “white-rose”.

The site is where many rivers meet. The name is derived from its gold-colored Lichen. It is situated about 2.5 km from the Park Headquarter.

Top of Phurua

It is the highest peak 1,365 meters above sea level. The high cliff enables you to get a beautiful view of the Heung and Klong Rivers in clean weather conditions.

Stone Soup

A This story happened a long time ago, somewhere in Europe, in the middle of a bitter winter. There was a terrible famine throughout the land. In the villages, people were so hungry that each family kept their food hidden away, so that no one else would be able to find it. They hardly spoke to each other, and if any food was found, they fought over it.

B One day, a poor traveler arrived in a village and set up his tent by the side of the road. He had with him a large pot, a wooden spoon, and a stone.

“You can’t stay here,” said the villagers.
 “There’s no food for you!” And they raced back to their houses to make sure no one would steal their food while they were away.

“That doesn’t matter,” said the stranger. “I have everything I need.”

He gathered sticks and built a fire in the middle of the main square. Then he placed his pot on the fire and added some water. He glanced around and noticed that he was being watched from every window and from every doorway. He smiled with satisfaction as the steam rose from the pot. Next, he took an ordinary stone from his pocket, which he carefully placed in the pot. He stirred the soup and waited patiently for it to boil.

C By this time, the villagers were full of curiosity. Several of them had gathered around the pot. “What are you making?” they asked.

“Stone soup,” replied the man. “It smells good, doesn’t it?” And he sniffed the soup and smiled in anticipation. “Of course, a little salt and pepper would really help the flavor.”

“I think I could find some salt and pepper,” said one of the women, and she ran back to her house to fetch the salt and pepper to add to the soup.

“How tasty it would be with a tiny piece of garlic,” said the traveler.

“I might have a tiny piece of garlic,” said another villager.

“If only we had some potatoes, too, then it would really be delicious,” said the stranger.

“I’ll get you a potato,” said another man and rushed home to fetch it.

D Soon the rumor had spread around the whole village. Someone was making a delicious soup with a special stone. People came from every house to smell the bubbling soup, and each of them brought an extra ingredient to make the soup taste even better. They were so hungry, and the soup smelled so good. “It must be that special stone,” they said.

Finally, the man declared that the soup was ready and it was time to eat. The villagers each brought a dish, and there was plenty of food for everyone. They talked and laughed, and for a while they forgot the famine and the cold. Even long after the famine had ended, people still remembered that night and the finest soup they had ever tasted.

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions which follow it .

A poor farmer Tongdee.

Once upon a time, there was a poor farmer by the name of Tongdee. Though he was poor, he was very industrious and so thrifty that he and his wife were able to save a little of their income each month. Tongdee guarded his precious savings very well, always wishing for more and more.

He had a neighbor named Som who, after a thrice-repeated dream, found a jar of gold buried in his land. Som had seen the treasure in the dream and had been told to dig for it in a corner of his farm. When he heard of this, Tongdee became very jealous indeed! He was so filled with jealousy that he did not give a thought to his work at all. His only wish was for a dream like that of Som. He wanted to be rich like his friend.

At last, one night, the dream came but Tongdee was still troubled. Would he too have the same number of dreams as Som?

Indeed he had. For three successive night, Tongdee dreamt the same dream and the place was clearly indicated. Close by his farm he would find a buried treasure, better than that of Som's – a jar of gold and diamonds.

Rising early one morning, Tongdee ran to the spot with his spade and dug until he reached a broad slab, too heavy to be lifted. His eyes sparkled with joy. Surely the jar of gold and diamonds was buried there. Tongdee hurried home to tell his secret to his wife, begging her to come and help him. She was just as overjoyed as Tongdee and together they rushed to the spot.

But to their utter dismay, they found, not the buried treasure, but a pile of rubble. Their barn had collapsed and they were poorer than ever! Too late did they realize their folly!

Read the Poem carefully and then write true or false.

The Flower of Your Friendship

Like a flower that finds a way in the cold winter,
That arises at the surface of the dense snow,
You appear in my heart
Filling with heat of the perfume of your friendship,
Your smile.
You sparkle in the light that appears from the sun
And you shine in the colors that make the rainbow
As the petals of a winter flower
That comes and stays ...
That lives and makes live ...
For one year, for two, for twenty two ...
For more and more,
Never losing that one brightness,
Consequence of that sun that heats the winter ...
Happy birthday.
